DETAILED ACTION

Information Disclosure Statement

The information disclosure statement filed June 1, 2004 fails to comply with 37 CFR 1.98(a)(3) because it does not include a concise explanation of the relevance, as it is presently understood by the individual designated in 37 CFR 1.56(c) most knowledgeable about the content of the information, of each patent listed that is not in the English language. It has been placed in the application file, but the information referred to therein has not been considered.

Claim Objections

Claim 11 is objected to because there is no structure recited; therefore, it is an improper claim. It does not further limit parent claim 1. Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-4, 8, 9, 11-13, 19 and 20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Camp (U.S. Patent 2,167,635).

Camp discloses a front impact damper having a vertical supporting member (11) with a bottom end which may be firmly secured in the ground. There are outer (12) and inner (15) deformable tubular members which are at a given height when the end of the supporting member is secured to the ground (Figure 3, for example). The outer member (12) has an outer lateral surface secured at a point to the vertical supporting member (Figures 5 and 7). The inner member (15c) is inside the outer member so as to rest one against the other at the point at which the outer deformable member is secured to the vertical member (Figure 7).

Art Unit: 3671

The members are fixed vertically to the vertical supporting member (Figure 5).

There is a mechanical clearance between the deformable tubular members.

The members are tangent at the point.

There is a metal bar (16) which fixes the tubular members.

Regarding claims 9 and 20, the outer tubular member meets the recitations regarding the "collapsible spacer member."

Regarding claim 11, a single damper of Camp meets the recitation of "a number."

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 5-7, 10 and 14-18 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Camp, as applied above.

Camp does not teach the corrugated shape; however, it is well known in the impact damper art to use this shape in order to obtain a strong and inexpensive apparatus. For this purpose, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have used a corrugated shape with the device of Camp.

Regarding claim 10, Camp only shows two tubular members; however, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have used three tubular members in order to obtain a device capable of withstanding stronger impacts than those described in the specification of Camp. Note that this is simply a duplication of existing parts, which does not patentably distinguish the apparatus in this instance.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-11 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.

Art Unit: 3671
